Item 4 – Advisory Business

- A. H.M. Payson & Co. is one of the oldest independent investment firms in the United States operating under its original name. Founded in 1854 by Portland businessman Henry Martyn Payson, the firm originally specialized in financing public water companies, and became nationally known as an underwriter of America’s growing infrastructure. Since that time, our role has evolved to meet the changing needs of the clients we serve. Today, investment advisory and trust services are our exclusive focus. To individuals and families, we offer comprehensive wealth management solutions; to institutions, we bring in-depth management and investment policy guidance. Through the years, our steadfast commitment to the judicious stewardship of our clients’ assets has remained unchanged.

A partnership until incorporated in 1987, the firm is currently owned by 8 individuals who serve as Managing Directors. As a non-depository state-chartered trust company and SEC Registered Investment Adviser, H.M. Payson & Co. (the Firm) provides investment advisory, trust and wealth management services to a wide variety of individuals, trusts, endowments, foundations and retirement plans. The majority of client assets are held with Reliance Trust Company of Atlanta, Georgia, a federally regulated trust company. The Firm also provides investment advisory services to clients who utilize qualified custodians other than Reliance Trust Company.

- B. We provide active management of equity and fixed income portfolios. We construct diversified portfolios with individual common stocks, including foreign companies trading as American Depository Receipts, mutual and exchange traded funds, individual bonds and other fixed income securities, and money market funds.

For many accounts with market values generally less than $400,000, the Firm provides active management through a selection of mutual funds and exchange traded funds, with allocations designed to address one of several investment objectives. The allocations are actively managed by the Firm’s Research Department and portfolios are rebalanced regularly to reflect the Firm’s current investment outlook and highest conviction ideas.

The Firm acts as an adviser to the Payson Total Return Fund (the “Fund”). The Fund is an open end mutual fund offered as a series of Forum Funds Trust, a Delaware Trust registered with the SEC as an Investment Company.

The Firm provides wealth management services to its investment advisory and trust clients. These services include trust, tax, financial and estate planning.

The Firm’s clients work closely with a single, dedicated portfolio manager. Portfolio managers develop an investment policy that recognizes a client’s unique circumstances, investment management objectives, and personal preferences. Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on their client accounts.

- C. As of December 31, 2018, the Firm managed approximately $3.6 billion of client assets. Of this amount, approximately $3.2 billion was under discretionary management, with the balance under non-discretionary management.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

The Firm manages client portfolios for a fee based upon the market value of the assets. Fees are computed as a percentage of the market value of the assets under management and include cash, cash equivalents, money market funds or other mutual funds and are assessed monthly in arrears. Below is our current fee schedule:

Annual Fees: 1.00% (.010) on first $1,000,000 Market Value
.60% (.006) on $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 Market Value
.40% (.004) over $5,000,000 Market Value

Related accounts, including those within a household or belonging to the same "Client Service Unit" (CSU), may be consolidated for fee calculation purposes. The annual minimum fee for each CSU is $4,000 and the annual minimum fee for any single account within a CSU is $500. Certain long standing accounts may be grandfathered at a lower fee rate which was applicable at the time the account was opened. Certain fee exceptions may also exist or be granted based upon extenuating circumstances specific to each client. Qualified charitable organizations are typically accorded a 20% discount off the fee schedule. Accounts in the Managed Allocation Portfolio Service (MAPS) program are assessed the same fee as regular investment advisory accounts, except that the annual minimum fee per CSU is $2,000. Any request by a client or portfolio manager for a fee exception must be presented to and approved by the Firm's Fee Exception Committee.

For clients for whom we also serve as custodian, we deduct fees directly from the client account. (see Item 15. Custody) The Firm can bill clients separately for qualified accounts such as IRA's or pension accounts to limit the effect on the reduction of their tax exempt assets. Advisory accounts that utilize other custodians are billed separately. Fees are charged monthly in arrears and are based upon end of month market value. Accounts opened or closed during the month are charged on a pro-rata basis.

The Firm serves as an investment adviser to the Payson Total Return Fund, a diversified mutual fund managed by the Forum Funds Trust. In consideration for its services, the Firm is compensated on a fee basis. Please refer to the Fund's prospectus and statement of additional information for specific information concerning the Firm's management fee. The market value of the Fund held in any advisory or trust client account is excluded from the client's total fee calculation to avoid duplicate fees. Mutual funds and exchange traded funds also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. With the exception of the Fund, mutual funds and exchange traded funds in a portfolio are included in the market value for the determination of the Firm's advisory fee.

For client accounts in which the Firm acts in the capacity of Trustee, the fee table is illustrated below and includes respective trust administration fees.

First $1,000,000	1.30%
$1,000,000 - $5,000,000	.80%
Above $5,000,000	.50%

Trustee rates are inclusive of the Firm's management fees. Grantor Trusts are charged advisory rates of 0.10% for the lifetime of the grantor. Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) are charged advisory rates plus a $200 annual administration fee. For clients who are seeking a full wealth management review, the fee is $3,000 for the initial review and plan, and $1,000 for annual updates. These fees may be waived for certain clients at the discretion of the Firm.

The Firm's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, and other third parties. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to the Firm's fee, and the Firm shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs. Please refer to Section 12. Brokerage Practices of this Brochure for a discussion regarding the Firm's brokerage practices.

The Firm also provides custodial services to clients who maintain non-discretionary investment portfolios. Transactions are executed per the direction of the client. The Firm assesses a flat annualized fee rate of 0.25% of assets for such accounts, subject to an annual minimum of $500. Certain fee exceptions may exist or be granted based upon extenuating circumstances specific to each client. Higher transactional costs may apply to clients with non-discretionary account relationships.

An investment advisory relationship may be terminated by the client at any time by giving written notice to the Firm. Accounts closed during the month are charged on a pro-rata basis.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees & Side by Side Management

The Firm does not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains or capital appreciation of the assets of a client). Accordingly, any conflicts normally presented by side by side management of accounts do not apply to those services rendered by the Firm.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

The Firm provides investment advice to individuals including high net worth individuals, institutions, investment companies, pension & profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, foundations, charitable organizations, municipalities, and various corporate and business entities. The Firm does not have any specific requirements for opening or maintaining an account. However, the Firm does reserve the right to negotiate such terms depending upon the circumstances presented.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment, Strategies and Risk of Loss

At H.M. Payson & Co., skilled investment management is the cornerstone of our work. Recognizing the importance of an unbiased perspective, we maintain an extensive independent research effort that brings meaningful value to the management of client assets.

The Research Department is comprised of nine portfolio manager/analysts, six of whom hold the designation of Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA). Each individual is assigned to one or more market sectors for primary coverage, but the entire team meets several times each week to discuss portfolio strategy and security selection.

Utilizing a wide range of external resources and an array of proprietary investment models, our analysts screen a large universe of companies for desirable investment characteristics. Once the field of potential candidates is narrowed through this quantitative process, the analyst performs a more thorough fundamental review of each company's competitive position, financial strength, and management qualities. Companies proposed for inclusion on our working list are reviewed and discussed by the group before acceptance.

The Firm, from time to time, may employ conservative option strategies in an effort to supplement client portfolio income and/or reduce downside risk. Strategies utilized may include writing covered calls on securities held in client accounts to generate additional income, purchasing puts to provide downside protection for certain portfolio positions, and a combination of the two positions that creates a collar strategy. It is the policy of H.M. Payson to employ option strategies only after communicating the strategies directly with the client, including delivering a written disclosure to the client.

Options are derivative instruments, whose return are based upon the return of some other underlying assets. The prices of options may be highly volatile, with the value potentially changing rapidly due to changes in the value of the underlying asset and the time to expiration of the specific options contract. Options values are also affected by other factors including interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, government policies, national and international economic and political events. The cost of options is related, in part, to the volatility of the underlying asset and therefore options on more highly volatile assets may be more expensive than options on assets with lower volatility.

In fixed income portfolios, we seek value in all sectors of the market, from U.S. Treasuries and sovereign debt to domestic, corporate and mortgage issuers. We monitor and adjust portfolio duration to take advantage of the prevailing level and anticipated changes in interest rates.

Although our focus has historically been centered in the domestic equity and fixed income markets, we have expanded our investment universe in recent years to include a broader range of asset classes. Through exchange traded index funds we are able to provide our clients with low-cost, diversified exposure to a wide variety of sub-asset classes such as foreign equities, real estate, high yield bonds, and commodities. Exchange traded funds also allow for the execution of specific value-added trading strategies, including “short” positions on particular asset classes, within investment policy parameters.

Systematic portfolio management is accomplished through the use of various models. The models are managed by the research department and the portfolio management group, and in turn, model changes are systematically implemented in client portfolios following the model. Under no circumstance is preferential treatment given to the Payson Total Return Fund or to the client portfolios that follow the Firm’s models. Additionally, the Firm makes a reasonable effort to aggregate security purchases across a range of the Firm’s accounts in an effort to attain more favorable executions.

The fundamental risk of investing in securities is the risk that the value of the security might decrease. Common stock values fluctuate in response to activities of an individual company or in response to general market, economic, political, and other conditions. A covered call position limits upside potential and carries the additional risk that the holder may be forced to sell the underlying security at a below market price. The market value of interest-bearing fixed income securities will be affected by changes in interest rates. Changes in the ability of an issuer to make payments of interest and principal and in the markets’ perception of an issuer’s creditworthiness will also affect the market value of fixed income securities. The Firm seeks to minimize portfolio risk through diversification and prudent portfolio management. However, it is impossible to eliminate the fundamental risk of securities declining in value, and investors in financial securities must be willing to accept the risks of the stock and fixed income markets.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to ones evaluation of the Firm or the integrity of the Firm's management. H.M. Payson & Co. has no disciplinary information to disclose.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

The Firm is a state chartered non-depository trust company subject to regulation by the Maine Bureau of Financial Institutions. The Firm is obligated to maintain minimum capital requirements of the larger of $1.4 million or varying percentages of assets under management.

As previously mentioned throughout this brochure, the Firm serves as an investment adviser to the Payson Total Return Fund, a diversified mutual fund managed by the Forum Funds Trust. In consideration for its services, the Firm is compensated on a fee basis. To the extent that such an arrangement is deemed to create a conflict of interest, the Firm has implemented a Code of Ethics which requires firm personnel to uphold and adhere-to the highest standards of ethical conduct. For further information about the Code, please see Item 11 as follows.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

In accordance with SEC Rule 204A-1, H.M. Payson & Co. has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the Firm describing its high standard of business conduct and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the compliance with laws, protection of non-public information, personal securities ownership and transactions, initial public offerings and private placements, and other potential conflicts of interest to which the Firm or its employees may be subjected. Additionally, in accordance with SEC Rule 17J-1 under the Investment Company Act, the Board has adopted the same Code of Ethics with respect to its services as Registered Investment Adviser to the Payson Total Return Fund. All persons covered by the Code must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended. A copy of the Firm's Code of Ethics is available upon request and may be obtained by contacting a member of the Firm's compliance staff.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

- A. The Firm understands that trading practices can present potential conflicts of interest for our advisory personnel. We have created policies and procedures in an attempt to mitigate these risks and protect our clients from trading practices that may harm, adversely impact, or treat them unfairly in any way. The policies and procedures address: best execution, soft dollars, client directed brokerage, crossing transactions, and aggregation and allocation of trades.

The Firm has a fiduciary obligation to obtain best execution by seeking the most favorable terms reasonably available under the circumstances for the execution of our clients' securities transactions. The Firm must execute securities transactions for clients in such a manner that the clients' total cost or proceeds in each transaction is the most favorable under the circumstances. We consider the full range and quality of a broker's services in placing brokerage including, among other things, commission rate, the value of client services provided as well as execution capability, financial responsibility, and responsiveness to the Firm. The determinative factor is not always the lowest possible commission cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution for the managed account.

- B. On behalf of its clients whose assets are held with Reliance Trust Company, the Firm has negotiated a commission rate of one cent per share that is charged by the institutional equity brokers the Firm has selected. The Firm may receive research or services other than execution from the equity or fixed income institutional broker dealers, but in no instances are client transactions charged equity commissions in excess of one cent per share, and all fixed income transactions are executed at a net price (no markup). The Firm has not entered into any contract or agreement with any institutional broker that provides incentive to the Firm to execute transactions with that broker. Equity trades will typically incur a ticket charge which is determined by the custodian. To the extent the Firm receives research and/or other services from a broker-dealer, client accounts do not incur any additional expenses as a result of this arrangement. Traditionally known as a “soft dollar” arrangement, the Firm will receive such services as a result of the client broker-dealer relationship.
- C. The Firm may recommend that clients establish brokerage and custody accounts with TD Ameritrade, Inc. (“TD Ameritrade”), a FINRA-registered broker-dealer, or Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”), a FINRA-registered broker-dealer. The Firm, TD Ameritrade, and Schwab are separate, unaffiliated entities. While the Firm may recommend that clients use TD Ameritrade or Schwab as their custodian/broker, each client will decide whether to do so and open their account with TD Ameritrade or Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with them. The Firm does not open the custody/brokerage account for clients. If a client’s account is maintained at TD Ameritrade or Schwab, the Firm can still use other brokers to execute trades for that account. TD Ameritrade and Schwab generally do not charge clients separately for custody services but are compensated by charging clients commissions or other fees on trades that they execute for the client’s account or that settle into the client’s account.

The Firm participates in the TD Ameritrade Institutional program. TD Ameritrade Institutional is a division of TD Ameritrade that offers to independent investment advisers services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. Some of these services help the Firm manage or administer its clients’ accounts (which services generally benefit the client) while others help the Firm manage and grow its business (which services generally do not benefit the client directly).

The Firm receives economic benefits through its participation in the TD Ameritrade Institutional program that are typically not available to TD Ameritrade retail investors based upon the Firm’s commitment that its clients will place or maintain a specified dollar amount of assets in accounts with TD Ameritrade within a specified period of time. The Firm may be influenced by this commitment in recommending that clients establish brokerage accounts at TD Ameritrade. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving adviser participants; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on or payments for compliance, marketing, research, technology, software, and practice management products or services provided to the Firm by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may provide some of these services itself or may arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to the Firm. TD Ameritrade may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. TD Ameritrade may also provide the Firm with other benefits such as occasional business entertainment of its personnel. Many of these services may be used to service all or a substantial number of the Firm's accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. In addition, some of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the program may benefit Advisor but may not directly benefit its clients.

The benefits received by the Firm through participation in the program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, the Firm endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by the Firm in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence the Firm's choice of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services.

The Firm also participates in the Schwab Advisor Services program. Schwab Advisor Services (formerly called Schwab Institutional) is Schwab's business serving independent investment advisory firms. Schwab provides the Firm and its clients with access to its institutional brokerage - trading, custody, reporting and related services - many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of these services help the Firm manage or administer its clients' accounts (which services generally benefit the client) while others help the Firm manage and grow its business (which services generally do not benefit the client directly).

The Firm receives economic benefits through its participation in the Schwab Advisor Services program that are typically not available to Schwab's retail investors based upon the Firm's commitment that its clients will place or maintain a specified dollar amount of assets in accounts with Schwab within a specified period of time. The Firm may be influenced by this commitment in recommending that clients establish brokerage accounts at Schwab. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): reimbursement of the exit fees clients' accounts will bear if the assets of those accounts are transferred to Schwab (subject to a cap); access to a broad range of investment products (some to which clients might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by a client); execution of securities transactions; custody of client assets; access to products and services that provide assistance to the Firm in managing and administering client accounts, including investment research prepared by Schwab and third parties; software and other technology that allows the Firm to access client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements), facilitates trade execution and allocates aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts, provides pricing and other market data, facilitates payment of the Firm's fees from client accounts, and assists with back-office functions such as recordkeeping and client reporting; services that help the Firm manage and further develop its business enterprise, such as: educational conferences and events, technology, compliance, legal, and business consulting, publications and conferences on practice management and business succession, marketing assistance, and access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers; and discounts on or payments for practice management products or services provided to the Firm by third party vendors. Schwab may provide some of these services itself or may arrange for third-party vendors to provide the services to the Firm. Schwab may also discount or waive its fees for some of these services or pay all or a part of a third party's fees. Schwab may also provide the Firm with other benefits such as occasional business entertainment of its personnel. Many of these services may be used to service all or a substantial number of the Firm's accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition, some of the products and services made available by Schwab may benefit the Firm but may not directly benefit its clients.

The benefits received by the Firm through participation in the Schwab Advisor Services program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to Schwab. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, the Firm endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by the Firm in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence the Firm's choice of Schwab for custody and brokerage services.

- D. Clients may elect to use an alternative custodian and broker. In such cases, the client is advised that higher commissions may result than those that could be obtained from the Firm. Additionally, if a client chooses to execute brokerage transactions through other firms, it is possible that less favorable execution may occur, and the client may lose potential benefits from aggregated transactions or wider security selection that might be obtained from institutional broker-dealers.
- E. At the sole discretion of the Firm, aggregate purchases or sales of the same security, instrument or obligation may be transacted on the same day for multiple accounts of one or more of the Firm's clients. Although such aggregations potentially could be either advantageous or disadvantageous to any one or more particular accounts, they will be affected only when the Firm believes that to do so will be in the best interest of the affected accounts. When transactions are so aggregated the actual prices applicable to the aggregation transaction will be averaged, and each client account participating in the aggregated transaction will be deemed to have purchased or sold its share of the security, instrument or obligation at the average price. If a partial execution is attained at the end of the trading day, the Firm will generally allocate shares on a pro rata basis, but may fill small orders entirely before applying the pro rata allocation.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

The Portfolio Managers assigned to the portfolios regularly review accounts based on several factors that would include; the client's policy statement, the Firm's economic outlook, investment strategy, and any changes that may result from client meetings. In addition to these standard reviews, a member of the "Portfolio Management Group" reviews the investment advisory and trust portfolios. The objective of the group is to review all managed portfolios at least once each calendar year. The group reviews portfolios for compliance with Firm investment policy, compliance with client investment objectives and constraints, and adherence to prudent portfolio management practices. This group is comprised of senior portfolio managers and the Firm's Chief Compliance Officer.

Clients will receive monthly/quarterly account statements from Reliance Trust and/or other qualified custodians. The frequency of delivery will depend on level of activity in client's account. Other reporting may be prepared by the Firm or prepared for the Firm (by other vendors) on an occasional basis. Clients are strongly encouraged to review any and all statements and or reports for a full understanding of the terms, conditions, and values therein. Questions and/or concerns regarding these materials may be addressed directly with firm personnel.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

The Firm does on occasion pay referral fees to unaffiliated third party solicitors who refer clients to the Firm. The referral fee paid to a solicitor is a predefined percentage of the investment advisory fee charged to the client, and is for a predefined period of time. The clients' investment advisory fees are never increased as a result of this arrangement, as the Firm pays a portion of the investment advisory fee received from the client to the solicitor. Whenever such an arrangement exists, it is in writing between the Firm and the solicitor and is properly disclosed to the prospective client when solicitation activities occur.

The Firm receives an economic benefit from Schwab and TD Ameritrade in the form of the support products and services each makes available to the Firm and other independent investment advisors that have their clients maintain accounts at Schwab and TD Ameritrade. Please see the disclosures in Section 12. Brokerage Practices of this Brochure regarding the Firm's participation in the TD Ameritrade Institutional program and the Schwab Advisor Services program.

Item 15 – Custody

For clients selecting the Firm as custodian, the custody of assets, income collection, trust accounting, and transactional services are provided through an outsourcing relationship between the Firm and Reliance Trust Company of Atlanta, Georgia. Reliance Trust Company was formed in the mid-1970s and provides trust, custody, and investment management fiduciary services on a direct basis to corporations including banks, trust companies, investment advisers, as well as to individuals.

Investment advisory clients may select other firms to serve as custodian and as securities broker. In such situations, fees charged by the selected custodian for custody and other services may be more or less than those charged by the Firm. Clients will receive statements on a quarterly or more frequent basis from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains client's investment assets. The Firm recommends that such clients carefully review statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that the Firm may provide to you. Our statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

The Firm usually receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought and sold, the broker-dealer and/or qualified custodian to be utilized, and the value of certain commission rates paid to same. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account. When selecting securities and determining amounts, the Firm observes the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which it advises. For registered investment companies, the Firm's authority to trade securities may also be limited by certain federal securities and tax laws that require diversification of investments and favor the holding of investments once made. Clients may impose certain limitations or restrictions on the discretionary investment authority granted to the Firm.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

- A. The Firm has adopted and implemented policies and procedures that we believe are reasonably designed to ensure that proxies are voted in the best interest of our clients, in accordance with our fiduciary duties and SEC Rule 206(4)-6 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. Our standard client agreements delegate to the Firm the authority to vote proxies received from issuers whose securities are held by clients of the Firm. Additionally, certain investment advisory clients, for whom the Firm does not provide custody, delegate the Firm to vote proxies received from issuers whose securities are held by these clients. Included in the latter category is the Payson Total Return Fund which is managed by the Firm with custody at Union Bank.

The Firm has the ability through its various custodians and proxy voting services to allow clients to give individual voting instructions. This can be established on an account by account basis so that client will receive proxies directly, or done on a specific issue. Instructions on a specific issue can be delivered from the client to their portfolio manager, who will ensure that their shares are voted accordingly.

- B. The Firm recognizes that under certain circumstances we may have a conflict of interest in voting proxies on behalf of our clients. A conflict of interest is defined as any circumstance when the Firm, (including officers, directors and employees) knowingly does business with, receives compensation from, or is a board member of a particular issuer or related entity. This relationship may create a conflict of interest between the Firm's interests and those of client shareholders in how proxies of that issuer are voted. The Firm has informed its employees that they are under an obligation to be aware of potential conflicts of interest on the part of the Firm with respect to voting proxies on behalf of our clients due to an employee's personal relationships, and circumstances that may arise during the conduct of the Firm's business. Employees are required to immediately notify our Chief Compliance Officer of any actual or potential conflicts of interest.

Clients may request a copy of our proxy voting policies and procedures including information about a specific proxy vote by calling any member of the Compliance Department of the Firm.

Item 18 – Financial Information

We do not believe the Firm has any financial obligations or issues that might impair its ability to meet its contractual and fiduciary commitments to its clients.

CFA Institute Financial Adviser Statement for SEC Form ADV

The Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charter is a globally respected, graduate-level investment credential established in 1962 and awarded by CFA Institute — the largest global association of investment professionals.

There are currently more than 90,000 CFA charterholders working in 134 countries. To earn the CFA charter, candidates must: 1) pass three sequential, six-hour examinations; 2) have at least four years of qualified professional investment experience; 3) join CFA Institute as members; and 4) commit to abide by, and annually reaffirm, their adherence to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct.

High Ethical Standards

The CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct, enforced through an active professional conduct program, require CFA charterholders to:

- Place their clients' interests ahead of their own
- Maintain independence and objectivity
- Act with integrity
- Maintain and improve their professional competence
- Disclose conflicts of interest and legal matters

Global Recognition

Passing the three CFA exams is a difficult feat that requires extensive study (successful candidates report spending an average of 300 hours of study per level). Earning the CFA charter demonstrates mastery of many of the advanced skills needed for investment analysis and decision making in today's quickly evolving global financial industry. As a result, employers and clients are increasingly seeking CFA charterholders—often making the charter a prerequisite for employment.

Additionally, regulatory bodies in 22 countries and territories recognize the CFA charter as a proxy for meeting certain licensing requirements, and more than 125 colleges and universities around the world have incorporated a majority of the CFA Program curriculum into their own finance courses.

Comprehensive and Current Knowledge

The CFA Program curriculum provides a comprehensive framework of knowledge for investment decision making and is firmly grounded in the knowledge and skills used every day in the investment profession. The three levels of the CFA Program test a proficiency with a wide range of fundamental and advanced investment topics, including ethical and professional standards, fixed-income and equity analysis, alternative and derivative investments, economics, financial reporting standards, portfolio management, and wealth planning.

The CFA Program curriculum is updated every year by experts from around the world to ensure that candidates learn the most relevant and practical new tools, ideas, and investment and wealth management skills to reflect the dynamic and complex nature of the profession.
